YOUNGEST HOBO FOUND IN YARDS

Harry Hagan, Two Years Old
Among Engines.

Refused to Tell Name Until Promised a Rabbit By Mr. Sale, Who Caught Him.

MOTHER CAN'T CONTROL HIM.

Harry Hagan, two years and nine months old, the son of Madame Earline Hagan, of 814 Washington street, bears the distinction of being the youngest "hobo" in Paducah if not in the entire country. Harry started out yesterday afternoon to go to Louisville, and got as far as the Illinois Central shop yards. Here he balked. Engines were too high to climb, and the fast switching trains were too high for his little arms to reach, or he might have boarded one and started "on his way." That was the way he "felt about it" anyway, and when rescued was headed for the passenger depot.

"Where are you going?" M. G. Sale, a carpenter, employed in the mill department of the local Illinois Central shops, asked the tot when he spied the little form down the tracks. The little fellow wore dresses and was making a good headway towards the passenger depot. It was not a case of "I don't know where I'm going, but I'm on my way" with Harry.

"I am going to Louisville to see my papa," he declared, speaking as well as he walked. The startled carpenter could only gasp at the tot's determination. The fact that it was not a joke was impressed by the presence of trains and "live" engines about the yards. The little fellow had walked around between and over engines and cars, and his successful movements about the yards have done credit to an experienced railroad man.

"I guess I will take you in hand," the carpenter concluded as he grabbed the tot's arm and started across the tracks towards Clark street. The little fellow kept a stiff upper lip and would not tell where he lived or his name. His one fixed purpose was to get to Louisville, and in the absence of funds he had determined to go it alone.

"I tramped for over an hour and a half with the boy," Mr. Sale declared, "before I found his home. He refused to divulge any information about himself although I begged and pleaded. The way I finally did get him to tell me anything was by promising to give him a young rabbit, and show him my rabbit farm. This served the purpose and I took him home to his mother."

"Yes, Harry runs away often, but I have never known him to get so far as the railroad yards or into such a dangerous place," the mother stated this morning. "He climbed a high fence to get out yesterday and had been gone fifteen minutes before I knew he was out of the yard. He was gone altogether over an hour and a half before returned to me. Sometimes he vexes me greatly and I have to go out a dozen times a day to hunt him up. He has a love of adventure and no threats or punishment can serve to break him of the habit of running away. Harry will be three years old in October."

In all the experience of local railroads this is the first instance of an infant hobo. His escape from death or injury about the yards is miraculous considering the number of engines continually running about, the strings of cars "kicked" and other dangers in the yards.

SCENTED HOLD-UP.

Did the Expressman When Plain Clothes Halted Him.

Pittsburg, Penn., July 26.—Henry Cripps, driver for the Adams Express company, was given a hearing for violation of a city ordinance, it is said to have refused to obey Police-man Hammel, stationed to direct the drivers over streets, which are being repaired. Cripps' wagon was loaded with $25,000 in silver coin. He stated cross Pennsylvania avenue on the wrong side. The officer, who was in plain clothes, yelled at the driver. Hammel fired in the air for the purpose of frightening Cripps. The driver turned when the shot was fired, and thinking the policeman was a holdup man, jumped from the wagon leaving the $25,000 in silver, horse wagon and all.

200 DOG NAMES IN SCHOOL LIST
Cincinnati Marshal Charges Fraud in Census to Aid Cox.

Cincinnati, July 26.—That the list of school children in the Fourth ward had been padded with the names of 200 dogs was declared by United States Marshal Vivian Fagin today. "The enumerator received 1 cent for each name," said Fagin, "and each name means more money for Boss George B. Cox to spend as he sees fit. Every janitor and every teacher is a politician, and not a move is made without the sanction of the boss. Even the board of education is part and parcel of gang politics."

THROUGH WINDOW

BULLET PASSES, NARROWLY
MISSING TWO WORKMEN.

Leading Man at Casino Theater
Cause of Sensation at New Richmond Hotel.

Two men in the Paducah Ice company's plant, were narrowly missed by bullets fired from a revolver in the hands of William A. Grigg, leading man for the Casino Stock company, at 10:30 o'clock this morning, from his room in the New Richmond house.

Jim Schoffner, of 427 Jefferson street, and Owen Anderson residing in O'Brien's addition, both colored, tank men at the ice plant, heard the whizz of a bullet imbedding itself for two inches in the brick wall on the opposite side of the building. Anderson said he was leaning over when the shot was fired, which he thinks accounts for his not being hit. The bullet entered the building through a window.

Grigg's room at the Richmond house is on the first street side of the hotel. When the shot was fired, Miss Daisy Dale, daughter of Colonel Bud Dale, went up on the balcony which circles the corner of the hotel and called to Grigg. He was lying on the bed with the pistol in his hand and only laughed when she spoke. She withdrew for fear he might shoot again. Mr. Charles Bennett, her uncle then went up to the room and took the pistol away from Grigg, who immediately went to sleep.

Fire Menaces Town.

Marquette, Mich., July 26.—Serious forest fires are raging northwest of here. The town of Birch is in much danger. A special train has been rushed to Birch with a portion of the Marquette fire department.

SIDEWALKS

WILL COST CITY OVER $1,000
FOR RIGHT OF WAY.

Proposition Made by W. F. Bradshaw to Dedicate Strip in Front of His Property.

It may cost the city of Paducah $1,000 to condemn property on Broadway to the city limits for sidewalks, according to the report made yesterday to the board of public works. The whole matter was referred to the general council.

W. F. Bradshaw, Sr., offered to dedicate a strip sufficiently wide for sidewalks in front of his property if the city would not assess his property to exceed 50 cents per front foot for making the improvement. He also offered to sell the strip to the city for one-half what is paid the other property holders along the street.

Shoots Own Daughter.

San Antonio, Tex., July 26.—In a duel last night with a burglar, Aurelio Caravajal accidentally shot his 18-year-old daughter in the temple and she may die. In returning the fire, the burglar hit the 11-year-old son of Caravajal and he is fatally injured. A number of shots were exchanged in the darkness, but so far as known the burglar escaped injury, as did Caravajal.

IN WRONG HOUSE NEGRO STARTED

Then Ran When Owner Came to the Door.

Thieves Steal Clothes and Then
Leave When They Find a Coop of Chickens.

TAKE AWAY SCORE OF FOWLS.

Sandy Reynolds, colored, residing on Ninth street near Jackson street, struck a new brand of "red eye" last night and in a short time after imbibing could not tell his one story frame dwelling from a two-story frame across the street. As a result of the optical entanglement he is in the lockup pending an investigation of his case.

This morning at an early hour some one mounted the steps to E. W. Britton's residence, Ninth and Jackson streets. The early morning visitors tried to walk softly but without much success. Mr. Britton being awakened by the noise.

Sandy tried the door but it failed and he began to kick it. A few kicks sufficed and Britton appeared. Sandy realized he had made a mistake and started running. He got his bearings and dived into his own bungalow.

Police Lieutenant Tom Potter was notified at police headquarters and Patrolman Scott Ferguson arrested Morris Reynolds but he proved to be the wrong one. Sandy later came down and gave himself up. He said he was drunk and "dat's all dey is to hit."

Drops Clothes and Takes Chickens.

Clothes lines and hen houses were robbed on West Harrison street last night. Three residences were visited, all in a line, and clothes taken at two were forsaken for chickens when the thieves stumbled upon a well filled hen house.

Mr. Ferd Wetherington's residence 1719 Harrison street, was first visited. Clothes were taken from the back porch and the residence of W. O. Sullivan next invaded. Clothes were taken from the Sullivan residence and a basket confiscated to carry them in.

The residence of A. L. Crowell, 1723 Harrison street, afforded the best opportunity for a good haul, and every chicken, more than 20, were taken except three. No noise was made in the operation of the thief and the clothes taken from the Sullivan residence were recovered this morning in the alley back of Crowell's residence. The thief evidently had too great a load and had to drop something.

CHARGE OF GRAFT

Made in Meeting of Stockholders of Westinghouse.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 26.—At a sensational meeting of the stockholders of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today, President Westinghouse was charged openly by the stockholders with launching private ventures with the company's funds. The directors were charged with aiding him in this but after a bitter squabble the slated board of directors were elected and the official coterie won out. The opposition called attention to the reported assets in which were included bank stocks and bonds of the Lackawana and Wyoming Valley Rapid Transit company—$6,300,000.

DIVORCED

From Two Wives, Judge Will Re-marry the First.

Savannah, Ga., July 26.—Judge H. T. Twiggs will tomorrow remarry Mrs. Lucy Twiggs, his former wife. Judge and Mrs. Twiggs formerly lived in Augusta, but were divorced after a married life of thirty years. Judge Twiggs married a second time and the second wife obtained a divorce from him. This was about five years ago. The first Mrs. Twiggs has been living in Savannah for some time. The couple will reside in Savannah, where Judge Twiggs is practicing law. Both of the divorce cases in which Judge Twiggs figured caused a sensation.

Anniversary Observed.

San Juan, Porto Rico, July 26.—The eighth anniversary of the landing of the United States troops was observed today throughout Porto Rico on a larger scale than heretofore. There was a special demonstration at Ponce.

ABOLISH PIG-TAILS.
Berlin, July 26.—Official information reached the government here that the emperor of China contemplates proclaiming two radical reforms, and enforcing their acceptance throughout the empire. Reforms are abolition of pig-tails and mutilation of women's feet. The authorities feel assured of the moral support of the powers in the effort to carry out the reforms.

BRUTAL ASSAULT ON YOUNG WOMAN

A Negro Attacks Her But is Frightened Away.

Girl Reaches House Where She Gives
Description of An Assailant,
Who Is Caught.

GRAVE FEARS OF LYNCHING.

Allen Mathis, a 16-year-old negro boy, is in the Graves county jail at Mayfield, charged with a brutal assault on Ethel McClain, and it is feared a mob will form and lynch him tonight.

He was brought there from Clay Switch shortly after dinner and 200 men, who heard of his arrest crowded around the jail and tried to take the prisoner away from the officers. The men were quieted, however, but they went away with threats of violence on their tongues. It is possible that the authorities will spirit the prisoner away as soon as it is dark. After hiding out all morning Mathis was captured at Clay Switch by Jesse Cooley, who knew the police were searching for the boy. Mathis confessed to Mr. Cooley, but said he did not know what possessed him to attack the girl.

Ethel McClain, the 18-year-old daughter of a widow residing one mile southwest of Mayfield on the railroad, was attacked by a negro last evening about dusk and brutally handled. The appearance of another negro frightened him away and after snatching her purse, he fled.

The young girl managed to get to a nearby house before she collapsed from the shock of the attack. The negro suspected resided in Mayfield several years ago, and returned recently with Robinson's circus. He fled and one negro, Arthur Carman, was arrested here in the railroad yards by Patrolman Aaron Hurley, a suspect. The suspect proved to be the wrong man and was released. Carman had come to Paducah to stock up on whiskey and had enough to intoxicate a regiment stored away on his person.

This morning Marshal McNutt, of Mayfield, and his policemen arrested a second negro at Wingo, but he too proved to be the wrong man.

This morning reports of a half dozen attempts to rob residences reached the police and it is presumed that the negro went on a pilfering expedition after his attempt on the girl.

ARMED MEN

SURROUND LEADERS OF HALL AND MARTIN FAMILIES.

Sheriff Instructed to Take Possession of Three Hundred and Go After Them.

Brinkley, Ky., July 26.—Sheriff George Hays left Hinchman this morning for Beaver creek to arrest certain members of the Hall and Martin families. The grand jury returned indictments against members of both sides of the feud, and Judge Gardner ordered the sheriff to bring them into court by Monday morning. Deputy Sheriff Thomas Hollyfield, in company with ex-Sheriff Irvin Napier, went to Beaver yesterday, and both sides refused to come. Sheriff Hays will go again, and if the parties still refuse he will report to the court. Judge Gardner has already ordered the sheriff to summon 300 men and march on the feudists and bring them, dead or alive.

The Hall's are at the home of Dick Hall, the wounded leader of their faction.

Wyatt Hall is hiding in the mountains, with fifty well-armed men.

Both leaders are surrounded by armed mountaineers, and if the sheriff attempts to make any arrests a deadly fight is expected.

TEAPOT TEMPEST AT THE CITY HALL

Light Committee Treads On Executive Toe.

Superintendent Keebler Arouses
Some Bad Feeling by His Report to the Board.

RIGHT TO SUPERVISE WORK.

Tempest in a teapot describes the situation at the city hall in regard to the installation of machinery in the electric light plant.

Friction between the general council and the board of public works regarding the respective prerogatives of the legislative and executive departments has been revived in connection with the improvement of the municipal lighting plant. The general council contracted for new dynamos and lamps and the joint light committee, acting under instructions, has busied itself about the preparations for the installation of the machinery.

Superintendent Keebler, when the committee, accompanied by Consulting Engineer Holmes, visited the plant, decided the members of the general council were overstepping the bound of authority and reported their conduct to the board of public works with the request that he be instructed as to whose orders he is to obey.

The board referred the interrogatory to Acting City Solicitor James Campbell, Sr., who said the board of public works has entire charge of the lighting plant.

That hard feeling toward the general council has been entertained in the board of public works for some time, there is no doubt and the members are not reticent in expressing their sentiments. It was reported at once that the board would institute proceedings to determine the rights of the executive department.

However, this affair reported by Superintendent John O. Keebler, seems to have nothing behind it. He merely stated to the board that Engineer Holmes and members of the joint lighting committee visited the plant and talked over plans for the installation of machinery. He then asked for instructions in the event the light committee undertook to assume charge of the arrangements. He received no instructions, but will obey only the orders of the board of public works.

As to what the committee was doing at the plant both Alderman Earl Palmer, chairman, and Engineer John W. Holmes, explain. The committee was invited out there by Engineer Holmes, in order that the members might the better understand certain plans he had made in accordance with instructions of the council and board of public works.

Mr. Holmes said:

"There were no instructions given by the committee. I merely explained the situation to the members, and they were out there at my invitation. When this deal for new machinery was entered into I was instructed to go ahead with the plans for altering the plant, and I merely wished them to understand the matter."

Alderman Palmer said:

"There was no intention on the part of the joint light committee to usurp the prerogatives of the board of public works nor to act officiously in the matter. We were invited out there by Engineer Holmes and he and Superintendent Keebler laid before us the plans in all of which we concurred. The initiative was taken by the committee in no instance. As representatives of the people, authorizing the expenditure of the money, I think we had a perfect right to go out there and acquaint ourselves with the situation."

President Rinkieff, of the board of public works, said:

"Since this board has the responsibility for the management and the success or failure of the plant, we shall not allow the general council or the lighting committee to assume charge of the work. If they could take the work and the responsibility, too, it might be different. Superintendent Keebler asked for instructions as to how he should proceed if ordered to do anything by the general council, and we referred the question to the city solicitor. Mr. Keebler will act in accordance with this opinion. We have not been consulted in the matter of improving the lighting plant and I think the committee has not shown the board much courtesy in the matter."

Generally fair tonight and Friday is the forecast. The highest temperature reached yesterday was 86 and the lowest today was 68.

NO BARS FOR OIL MEN

Only Effort Will Be to Get Them Fined.

Cleveland, July 26.—Fines instead of imprisonment will be the punishment asked by the United States government for those found guilty of law-breaking in connection with the oil industry. It was learned on excellent authority today that the proceedings soon to be instituted in Chicago in connection with the federal inquiry will class the offenses as misdemeanors instead of felons. Fine or imprisonment, or both, attend conviction on the latter charge, while a fine alone is the punishment for the former.

STRANGE WOMAN

MIXED UP IN THAW CASE IN-TERESTS GOTHAM.

Harry Thaw's Wife Denies Report of Divorce Proceedings Alleged to Be Planned.

New York, July 26.—Unusual mystery surrounds the visit of a new witness in the Thaw case to the district attorney's office late this afternoon. She was a woman past 40 years of age, but none of the officials concerned would disclose her identity. She went to the criminal courts building in company with P. L. Bergoff, the detective employed by Stanford White when he is said to have feared injury from Thaw. The detective and the woman went to the office of Assistant District Attorney Turnbull, where they were closeted for an hour a stenographer being in attendance. A great deal of attention seemed to be paid to the woman, and her appearance so late in the day was taken to mean that she had something of importance to contribute to the district attorney's case. When she went out she was escorted not only by Bergoff but by a policeman attached to the district attorney's staff.

Mrs. Harry K. Thaw was asked today if it is true that she is seeking a divorce from him. Mrs. Thaw replied:

"The story is perfectly absurd. It is a cruel canard, there is absolutely nothing in it. That's all I have to say about it."

Williams Nominated for Congress.

Jackson, Miss., July 26.—The Democratic executive committee of the Eighth Mississippi congressional district met this afternoon and formally declared John Sharp Williams the party candidate for congress from that district.

FELL OFF FENCE

AND BROKE HIS LEFT LEG IN THE FALL.

James Friedman, the Eight-Year-Old
Son of Herman Friedman, Meets With Accident.

James Friedman, the eight-year-old boy of Herman Friedman, 815 Jefferson street, fell from a fence on which he was climbing and broke his left leg above the ankle yesterday afternoon late. The little fellow was climbing on the iron fence around Mrs. J. M. Buckner's home on the corner of Eighth and Jefferson streets when the accident occurred. The fracture was reduced and today he is resting well with no other bad prospect than several weeks inactivity.

IN GERMANY ALSO.

Food Adulterated and Spoiled Meats
Made Sausage.

Washington, D. C., July 26.—German food adulteration is the subject of a report received by the bureau of manufacturers from Consul Brittain of Kehl. Doctor Jackenack, of Berlin, states that there were in Germany in 1888, 1,400 prosecutions for adulterating food products; in 1898, 3,000; in 1901, 2,586; in 1903, 6,000.

CZAR IS DOMINANT THROUGH MILITARY

Revolutionaries Inactive and Await Proper Time.

Wish Viborg Manifesto to Reach All People Before Committing Any Overt Act.

SITUATION SEEMS UNCHANGED.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—Briefly stated the situation today is, the government is still dominant, through military backing. The revolutionists are inactive, waiting for what they consider the proper time to begin an active campaign against the government. Peasants are busy gathering crops. The quiet is being utilized by the czar in an effort to establish a new cabinet. Revolutionists want the Viborg manifesto to reach all the peasants before overt action is attempted.

Numbness Seizes People.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—The proposed general political strike which is backed by a mass of oratory, still hangs fire, encouraging the belief on the part of the bureaucracy that the government's coup d'etat has been successful. Appearances, however, are deceptive. The indecision of the proletarian organizations only proves that, in spite of their boasts that they were prepared for eventualities, they were taken off their guard. The leaders of the proletarian organizations understand fully that the burden now falls on them, but they also appreciate that a certain numbness has taken possession of the people.

Though the popular passions have not cooled, the long nervous strain has produced a sort of exhaustion which makes it more difficult to induce them to rush forward and embark on the privations and sacrifices involved in a general strike. On the other hand they recognize that if the psychological moment is lost, with the machinery of repression in full operation, it will be well nigh impossible to organize an uprising later, and that they will be compelled to wait for another spontaneous upheaval like that of last fall. For these reasons the majority of the proletarian leaders, backed by the group of toil and the majority of the Constitutional Democrats, are insisting that the die must be cast. The Social Democrats have already given their vote in favor of calling a general strike not later than Monday, but some of the workmen's unions, considering how limited are their resources, shrink from facing the ordeal of starvation and bayonets. Anticipating an immediate and extensive movement among the peasants in the south, they urge delay until the tide of revolt sweeps northward. The political leaders are feverishly meeting and conferring in secret like conspirators.

9,000 Workmen Strike at Riga.

Riga, Russia, July 26.—Nine thousand factory workmen have struck work today.

Members of Douma Sent Home.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—The members of the Douma have been given third-class tickets with $5 each for expenses, and sent home. The police escorted them to the railroad stations, arresting such sympathizers as greeted the departing deputies. The government, in order not to raise a rumpus, decided not to touch the signers of the Viborg appeal.

Emperor in Earnest.

St. Petersburg, July 26.—St. Petersburg and the provinces received the news of the dissolution of the Douma calmly. The emperor firmly intends realizing the reforms proclaimed in his manifesto of October 30. The dissolution of the Douma was indispensable, as the first body of delegates pursued tendencies that threatened to prevent the peaceful development of reforms in the empire.

Another Village Consumed.

Sartov, July 26.—The village of Etkaï was fired during the agrarian disorders and has been completely consumed.

Flee Fearing Cossacks.

Paris, July 26.—The correspondent at Odessa of the Matins reports that the governor has ordered the population to give up their arms. Panic reigns in Odessa owing to the threats of the Cossacks to commence massacres and train loads of people are patrolling the streets. There have been 600 arrests.

Today's Schedule.
Paducah at Vincennes.
Cairo at Mattoon.
Danville at Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 26.—Both pitchers were hit freely today but the game was won through Ebright's hit which tallied three runs. Brahlie did not show form and Allen was as easily found by the visitors. The errors were factors in scores made by both sides.

The score: R H E
Paducah..... 5 9 3
Jacksonville..... 7 8 2
Batteries—Brahlie and Downing; Allen, Belt and Lutshaw.

Hashlingers Take Another.
Danville, Ill., July 26.—The Hashlingers took yesterday's game, after a hard battle, by one score. It required eleven innings to do the work. The locals played a star game, making no errors. Cairo's three errors gave Danville one of the runs made.

The score: R H E
Cairo..... 3 9 3
Danville..... 2 6 0
Batteries—Woodridge and Quiesor; Holycross and Ott.

Hostlers Whip Mattoon.
Vincennes, Ind., July 26.—The Hostlers won today from Mattoon by hard hitting. Perdue could not be found by the Hostlers and the game was not in doubt from the first.

The score: R H E
Vincennes..... 5 10 2
Mattoon..... 1 3 4
Batteries—Perdue and Matteson; Dowell, McCarthy and Johnson.

Dope.

(From the Mattoon Star.)
"Clark Griffith, of the New York American league team, watched Holycross perform in a game with Cairo Monday."

"Dick Brahlie, one of Paducah's mainstays in the box, is losing his effectiveness. He is about all in as a twirler."

"Stagle, Danville's new second sacker, was formerly with the Milwaukee American Association team. He was released on account of his weak hitting."

"Bob Shaw, of Paris, formerly with Danville, has signed with the Terre Haute Central league team."

From the Vincennes Capital:
"Harry Cooper is still with the Indians and is still cutting up in the same old way. When here last trip he won two games for the Indians and then kicked like a steer because they fell down and with errors lost out."

"Asher, who pitched for Paducah yesterday, is probably the Asher who twirled for Henderson and also Cairo. He has been in the Three Eye league and is a rattling good box artist."

"Paducah has been playing good ball in the past few days, this being due to all the cripples having returned to the fold. The Champs will do mighty well to take two out of three."

America Can Provide.

Washington, July 26.—Through the state department the American Red Cross has sent a dispatch to the Japanese government asking that no further contributions be made by Japanese to the San Francisco relief fund. This action was taken by Red Cross officials because they believe all the funds necessary for the relief of California earthquake sufferers can be raised in this country.

Ballooning as a Sport.

The sport of ballooning bids fair to eclipse even automobilism as a means of recreation for those who have the money to pay for new sensations, says Technical World Magazine for August. Staid Philadelphia has fallen into line in the matter of the craze for navigating the air, and the Aeronautic club of the Quaker City is already an assured fact. The first ascension of the new club was a decided success; and timid mortals who had been wont to declare that not for the wealth of a Wall street oil merchant would they make the trip skyward marveled at the gentleness of the balloon's rise when the lines were cast off the big gas-bag owned by Alfred N. Chandler of the new club.

A trip in a balloon is not possible every day, except for the wealthy, for it costs about thirty-five dollars to fill the big bag with gas.

In the first ascension of the club the descent was made in about two hours after the start, the balloon coming to earth under the guidance of the skilled aeronaut so gently that a glass of water could have been left on the bottom of the car without a drop being spilled. This is ballooning for pleasure. With the time for the ascension carefully chosen, and the voyage brought to a close at the right time for descending, there is little danger in the sport. The danger arises when venturesome souls try to make records or beat previous achievements.

Making Fuel From Waste.

It has been estimated that in the mining of coal, the dust, slack and screenings represent nearly a fourth of the output of the mines, writes W. Frank McClure in Technical World Magazine for August. To utilize these products has long been a problem. The fact that in France, Germany and Cardiff, Wales, the utilization of this waste has been an established industry for years, lent impetus to the introduction of some such plan in America; but European methods, it was found, could not be advantageously adopted here. The advanced price of coal and the likelihood of strikes, however, have kept the problem of using waste products to the front, until now inventive genius is being crowned with success at both anthracite and bituminous fields will ere long be profiting greatly thereby.

A new machine, recently completed, in its first practical tests at St. Louis, Mo., produced from what was previously considered waste products eight tons of fuel in one hour's time. This fuel is in the form of briquettes each oval in shape, weighing three-fourths of a pound and being 3 inches in diameter and 1 1/2 inches thick. This is much smaller than the briquettes produced in Europe, which seldom weigh less than 6 pounds each. The smaller size insures more perfect combustion.

Tobacco Growing in Hawaii.

Tobacco growing and other agricultural pursuits in Hawaii are treated of in a report that has just been issued by the department of agriculture. The report goes into great detail as to the growing of tobacco and the preparation of the soil and the curing of the crop. The results of a number of experimental plants are given and the conclusion drawn is that the soil of Hawaii and the climate and rainfall are all adapted to the cultivation of a high grade of tobacco on a paying basis. It is stated that there are 100,000 acres of land adapted to tobacco growing in Hawaii, with considerable tracts in the adjacent islands. The cost of producing tobacco is put as low as from two to two and one-half cents a pound for the green leaf. It is said, however, that the fields have to be poisoned before planting owing to the prevalence of the cut worm, Japanese beetle and other insects. Directions are given in detail for doing this and the process is said not to be expensive.

However cleverly a woman may make up her face she seldom tampers with her heart.

FLYER IN BONDS WITHOUT A CENT

Express Clerk Bid in $5,800,000 Worth of Panamas.

Required Only Nerve and He Can Sell His Option for a Couple of Thousand.

WALL STREET IS ALL AGOG.

New York, July 26.—The identity of Samuel Byerley, the successful bidder for $5,800,000 of the new Panama canal 2 per cent bonds, was learned yesterday. Byerley turns out to be a clerk in the accounting department of the American Express company.

Ever since the bids for the bonds were announced last Saturday, Wall street has been trying to learn something about Mr. Byerley and has been speculating as to the interests behind his bid. Byerley was not inclined to answer any questions yesterday after he had been located. The treasurer of the American Express company said:

"This is entirely a personal matter with Mr. Byerley, who is one of our clerks. There is absolutely nothing in the rumor that he represents interests in the company."

Byerley has almost taken the breath away from some of his fellow clerks. He had a host of callers yesterday who wanted to know how he could afford to bid for $5,800,000 of government bonds, but he had nothing to say.

The general opinion among those in the American Express company's office is that Byerley is taking a little flyer, which has not cost him anything more tangible so far than nerve. Under the terms of the sale no money need be put up until August 1. Byerley made four bids. For one million of the bonds he offered $104.25; for the second million $103.990; for the third million $103.975, and for $2,191,580 he offered $103.867. The New York syndicate that got one-half of the $30,000,000 bonds put up a price on them yesterday of $104.40. It was figured out by the bond experts yesterday that should Byerley sell his option at 104 he would clear $2,850 without putting up a cent save for the postage stamp which carried his bid to Washington.

Don't Fear Dreadnaught.

Washington, D. C., July 26.—The publication of the "White Book" in London giving some information concerning the main features of the large English battleship Dreadnaught has caused some discussion among naval officers, but the facts made public were already known by the officers of the navy, who are interested in naval architecture. There is no great enthusiasm among many of the naval officers in regard to the construction of a ship which will equal the Dreadnaught as a sea fighting machine. It is pointed out that the United States now has under construction two ships, the Michigan and South Carolina, which are equal to the Dreadnaught in broadside battle. The latter, however, could fire six 12-inch guns dead ahead, whereas the Michigan and South Carolina could fire but four. It is pointed out, however, that very little fighting is done head-on and that the effective fighting of a battleship is her broadside.

Not a Public Work.

Washington, July 26.—Informally the navy has been advised that the opinion of the department of justice is to the effect that a battleship under construction is not a public work under the eight-hour labor law, and that such a public work must be permanent improvements on government property.

RAILROAD NOTES

Foreman on Instruction Tour.

This morning Joe Walker, foreman of the Illinois Central round house, started out on a tour of all the principal shops of the system except those at Memphis, to demonstrate the firing of engines with one gallon of crude oil, a feat he stands alone in. By Mr. Walker's device the Illinois Central saves nine cents or three gallons of oil on each engine and it will aggregate thousands of dollars annually if made a success the system over. Burnside's shops in Chicago will be first visited. Mr. Walker's place is being filled by J. Garber.

The air compressor at the local Illinois Central shops broke down this morning and the air equipment was out of commission for two hours.

Mr. John Lehnhard, switch engine foreman in the Illinois Central yards, is out today after a several days' illness of fever.

ALLIGATOR NEAR EXTINCTION

Demand for the Hides Causes Great Slaughter of Reptiles.

Washington, July 26.—The American alligator is likely to go the way of the American buffalo, and alligator hides may become as rare as eggs of the great auk, according to a report just issued by the department of commerce and labor. The consumption of alligator skins is greater now than ever before. The quantity of alligator has been decreased in all of the southern states and it is declared to be only a question of a few years when it will be impossible to obtain the hides at a price that will warrant their employment in the manufacture of leather. It is estimated that the number of alligators in Louisiana is at least 30 per cent less than twenty years ago.

PICKEREL FULL OF FISH BONES.

Doctors Had to Remove Them From Farmer in Cumberland County.

Glasgow, Ky., July 26.—At Summer Shade John Pickerel, a farmer of Cumberland county, forty years of age, was operated on for fish bones in various parts of the body. Several weeks ago Pickerel ate fish and did not remove the bones. In a short time he complained of pains and of being decidedly sore. He consulted a physician, who advised an operation. He was carried to a sanitarium at Summer Shade, and large pieces of fish bones were removed from several parts of his body and one piece from his hip, the bones, having passed through the walls of the stomach and intestines. The case has caused considerable comment among the medical profession, as it is the first case of the kind on record in this county.

Man Coughs to Death.

Wichita, Kan., July 26.—Joseph Zimmer, aged 60, known in this city as "Jo" Tucker, died in a fit of coughing in the washroom of the Mahan hotel this morning. Death was due to exhaustion. Zimmer's father, during the early manhood of Nicholas Longworth was landscape gardener for the Longworth family in Cincinnati. In a note book Zimmer carried is written what is believed to have been his legal name, the name he was known by in this city and his home address.

The entry was: "Joseph Tucker home address, Cincinnati, Ohio. First avenue and Princess hill. Joseph Zimmer."

The only other means of identification found with the body was a letter from Cincinnati dated March 17 and addressed to "My Dear Brother Joseph." The letter was signed "Caroline Zimmer."

Insane After Fight With Bulldogs.

Springfield, Ill., July 26.—With flesh torn from his limbs, rendered temporarily insane and marked for life, is the result of an encounter Samuel Barbro, of 826 South West Grand avenue, had with two bulldogs owned, it is alleged, by John Watts. Barbro went into the yard, and was immediately attacked by the dogs. By holding his arms across his throat he prevented the dogs strangling him. The animals threw him to the ground, however, and tore the flesh off his legs and arms. Assistance came in time to save his life. One of the dogs had to be killed before it would desist. Barbro was placed in jail, where he raved temporarily, but he is now rapidly recovering.

To Make No Political Talks.

Oyster Bay, July 26.—President Roosevelt is not to make any political speeches in Pennsylvania this fall. To correct an impression that he is to speak in Pittsburg and Philadelphia in support of the Republican state ticket, it is explained that he had some time ago promised to make a speech at Harrisburg, October 4, when the new capitol building is to be dedicated. He has also promised to speak at the York county fair at York, Pa.

A Tangible Basis for Advertising

Very often, advertising is based on nothing more safe, or tangible, or definite than the experience, or opinion, or judgment, or LUCK of some so-called advertising "expert" or organization of "experts."

WHEN the "experts" speculate with the advertiser's money and happen to "pick a winner,"—there's the successful advertiser they tell you about.

When they lose,—there's the business man who says advertising doesn't pay him, and blames the newspapers when he should blame himself.

Then there's the advertiser who doesn't know whether his advertising is really paying him or not, and the business man who for lack of a tangible basis has never been convinced that advertising could be successfully applied to his business.

The largest advertising agency in America is unique in basing its service on a definite, trustworthy guide, viz.: the TABULATED, RECORDED RESULTS of hundreds of successful advertising campaigns for scores of commodities.

We would like a personal talk with you, wherein we can show you what we do to eliminate the waste in advertising due to wrong copy and media—how the Lord & Thomas Record of Results has put advertising on a TANGIBLE basis, and what all this means to you in dollars and cents.

One of our representatives is in your city every few days looking after the interests of some of our present clients. That is why we are advertising in this newspaper—to you—NOW.

A letter, saying that we may call on you at your office, will imply no obligation on your part. Just say when.

We are issuing a series of small books (cloth bound) covering advertising in all its phases, which we send free to interested advertisers.

House Without a Chimney.

The only man in modern times who owns and occupies a house without a stove or chimney—H. W. Hillman, of Schenectady, N. Y.—entertainingly describes his experiences in Technical World Magazine for July.

"We entered the new house in September, 1905. The electric kitchen equipment was connected within two minutes from the time the table was taken off the wagon; and there was no waiting around for the stove man to come and connect up the stove, fit the stovepipe, build the fire, etc. For nearly three years we have cooked and baked by electricity daily; and the new kitchen, therefore, has no coal or gas range.

"As regards costs of operating, the most intelligent way to explain this item is to draw comparisons with monthly costs of operating with coal and gas. The writer has had ten years' experience with kitchen range, with coal at $6.50 per ton on the average; also six years' experience with gas at $1.30 per thousand. Our gas bills would average about $3.00 per month. We used the coal range Monday and Tuesday for washing and ironing, and burned a little less than a half-ton of coal a month, at a cost of about $3.00. The average monthly cost of operating was therefore about $6.00 for kitchen coal and gas, with an additional cost for carting away ashes.

"Many readers will be surprised to learn that my average monthly cost for electricity for two years has been $6.69 a month, or only 10 per cent higher than coal or gas. There are no ashes to cart away, no fires to build, and the electric system offers a neat, clean, healthy kitchen."

"You told me he was a good ladies' horse," angrily said the man who had made the purchase. "He was" replied the dragoon. "My wife owned him, and she's one of the best women I ever knew."—Chicago Record-Herald.

ROUTINE MATTERS KEEP BOARD BUSY

In Session Several Hours Yesterday Afternoon.

Telephone Companies Cannot Get Permits for New Poles Until Old Ones Are Removed.

WILL HURRY WORK ON STREET.

After spending considerable time discussing the relative rights of the board of public works and the general council to install the machinery in the municipal lighting plant, and considering a right of way on Broadway for side-walks, the board of public works was in session several hours yesterday afternoon disposing of a large number of routine matters.

Routine Matters.

The matter of opening an alley between Twelfth and Thirteenth and Monroe and Madison streets, was deferred until proper dedications are made.

The street department was ordered to remove debris from the pavements at Fifth and Jefferson streets. The Central Labor union was given permission to stretch a banner across Fourth street and Broadway to advertise its carnival.

The street inspector was ordered to ascertain if supports of the bridge on Caldwell street are weak, and reinforce them until the bridge is replaced with concrete arch.

Orders to rush work of improving Ninth street, where new track has been laid, were given the traction company.

A report that Friedman & Keller had removed a small porch from the pavement at the store, Second and Jefferson streets, was filed.

Contractors Robertson & Gardner were ordered to rush work on storm water sewers on Jefferson street.

The board adopted a rule to refuse permission to erect new telephone and telegraph poles until old ones are removed.

The Western Union Telegraph company was ordered to remove old poles from Broadway by Monday, or the board would do so at the company's expense.

The matter of building a public driveway to the Fritz Metzger property on West Tennessee street was referred for dedication of property.

The street railway company was ordered to set poles back to the curb line near Eighth and Jefferson streets.

The city solicitor was asked for a report on the legality of the city's improving an alley between Seventeenth and Nineteenth and Madison and Harrison streets. The abutting property owners have not all signed.

The street department was ordered to repair an alley out of Kentucky avenue between Second and Third streets. Also an alley between Eighth and Ninth and Harrison and Clay streets.

Depressions in the street at Fourth and Tennessee streets caused by excavations for gas mains, were ordered remedied.

Fisher & Farley, veterinary surgeons, were given permission to build a driveway over the pavement at their hospital on South Third street.

The matter of remedying a depression of the street on Kentucky avenue between Second and Third streets was referred to the engineer for suggestions. The grade is concerned.

Orders to keep accumulated mud from manholes after each rain were given the street department.

The street inspector was ordered to notify merchants that awnings must not be less than eight feet from the ground.

The auditor was instructed to look up dedications of property in Littleville where a street improvement is asked for; also to look after streets where conduits for telephones were permitted.

Poles left in the gutter in Werten's addition by the telephone companies, were ordered removed.

The solicitor was ordered to see if the maintenance bond given by contractors carried with it proper provisions to compel the contractors to repair side-walks on Broadway from Fifth street to Ninth street.

Contractors Thomas Bridges' Sons were ordered to remove debris from pavements on Kentucky avenue.

John G. A. Leishman, who has just been appointed first American ambassador to Turkey, when a boy in Pittsburgh was placed in a protestant orphan asylum by his widowed mother. Later he won a place in one of the big steel mills. He attended night school, made the most of his opportunities and now is many times a steel millionaire.

RECTIFIERS MAY TEST NEW LAW

Constitutional Question is to be Raised.

Four Railroads Considering Fight on New Rate Regulation for State of Kentucky.

CANDIDATES ARE ANNOUNCING.

Frankfort, Ky., July 26.—Attorney W. M. Hough, representing the rectifiers of Kentucky was here today in conference with the attorney general and state auditor relative to the reports required of the rectifiers by Auditor Hager. The form of report as sent out by the auditor was called in question by the attorney for the rectifiers. It is understood here that the constitutionality of the new law will be called in question by the rectifiers, though probably not until a full period of six months is to be reported upon to the state. The rectifiers in the organization represented by Attorney Hough made a great deal of goods during the period intervening between the passage of the law by the assembly and the date of its becoming operative, and very little for the single week to the end of the fiscal year, ending June 30 last, for which they had to report to the state, the law not becoming operative until June 23 preceding. The constitutionality of the legislative act is to be attacked on the ground that the title is defective.

Hairpin in Her Back.

Louisville, July 26.—After she had suffered for years from what had been declared to be spinal trouble, Regina Oppenheimer, who had been taken to Chicago to undergo an operation, conducted by the most eminent surgeons in the country, has completely recovered. After a hairpin which had lodged against the spine had worked itself to the surface the child was restored to health.

New Democratic Paper.

Central City, Ky., July 26.—Central City is to have a Democratic paper. A stock company is being formed capital $5,000, the stock being held by the best business men of Central City and Muhlenberg county. The incorporators are H. L. Raabe, J. L. McDowell, Leo Pentress, R. B. Orlbertson and J. W. Blackburn, all citizens of Central City. The paper is to be issued in about three weeks.

Garrard Democrats.

Lancaster, Ky., July 26.—A mass-meeting was held here at the court house called to order by W. G. Gooch, chairman of the Democratic county committee, to endorse the official career and candidacy of the Hon. James B. McCreary for United States senator. The Hon. R. C. Tomlinson was chosen chairman and J. Wade Walker secretary of the meeting and resolutions of endorsement were adopted. A committee will be appointed in each precinct of Garrard county to look after the interest of Senator McCreary.

May Become Candidate.

Frankfort, Ky., July 26.—The Hon. Robert B. Franklin, of this city, has been conferring with close friends for a day or two, and expects to reach a determination some time this week with reference to becoming a candidate for governor. Mr. Franklin is commonwealth's attorney of the Fourteenth judicial district.

Railroads Will Contest.

Frankfort, Ky., July 26.—Four of the railroads affected by the recent decision of the state railroad commission in the freight rate cases this morning filed a petition in the federal court here seeking to enjoin the commission from carrying into effect the reduction in certain rates and other provisions of the commission's finding.

The roads party to the suit are the Louisville and Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis.

One Traveler's Criticism.

The Hon. John Sharp Williams had an engagement to speak in a small southern town. The train he was traveling on was not one of the swiftest, and he lost no opportunity of keeping the conductor informed as to his opinions of that particular road.

"Well, if yer don't like it," the conductor finally blurted out, "why in thunder don't yer git out an' walk?"

"I would," Mr. Williams blandly replied, "but you see the committee doesn't expect me until this train gets in."—"Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree." Everybody's Magazine for August.

A Talk with the Consumer

Competition among brewers is keen. Perhaps you've noticed it. You may not know what's back of it. You have a right to know the facts. We have decided to print them. Some of the large brewers to reduce the cost of brewing use cheap materials. In place of Barley, the very soul and essence of perfect beer, they use Corn, because it is cheap.

They further reduce the cost of production by not having ample storage facilities to properly age their beer.

The result is beer that has little else but "Purity" and "Sterilization" to recommend it. As a matter of fact, nearly all beer is pure and properly sterilized.

Budweiser

—The King of all Bottled Beers—

Budweiser is brewed from choicest Barley-Malt, the finest Hops, imported from the province of Saaz, in Bohemia, Yeast of special culture, and a small percentage of Rice.

It is fermented in glass-enameled vats. It is lagered (aged) from four to five months in glass-lined steel tanks.

In fact, is in glass from "Kettle to the Lip."

Our enormous storage capacity—600,000 barrels—enables us to age our beer to full maturity, which accounts for its healthfulness and delicious flavor.

We produce beer of such unquestioned superiority that discriminating consumers demand it.

It is for these reasons that Budweiser, although the highest in price, has a larger sale than all other bottled beers.

The New Anti-Trust Fuel.

The present tax on denaturalized alcohol which has been abolished by good sense of congress, has been in force since 1861, writes Day Allen Wiley in Technical World Magazine for August. As showing how it has crippled American industry, previous to 1861 more than 20,000,000 gallons of alcohol were annually used in the United States for manufacturing purposes. Under the varying rates of taxation in force since that time, the quantity of alcohol used in the arts and manufactures has steadily declined, until at the present time the total annual consumption for these purposes is estimated by competent authorities to be less than 5,000,000 gallons. With a per capita consumption equal to that of 1860, we should now be using for industrial purposes 80,000,000 gallons annually, or sixteen times as much as is actually consumed. In view of the fact that the per capita consuming power of the public is now much greater than in 1860, and that the number of articles in the manufacture of which alcohol would be used if it were not for its high price has been greatly increased in recent years, it is evident that the annual consumption of alcohol for industrial purposes would be much more than 80,000,000 gallons. This fact is amply verified by the extent to which spirits are used in the arts and industries in Europe. Germany alone requires over 70,000,000 gallons yearly in its industries, while France makes over 100,000,000 gallons not only from potatoes, beets and grain, but even from sawdust, for a French savant has been successfully extracting 500 pounds of sugar and reducing it to 25 gallons of pure alcohol, from a ton of ordinary sawdust. Consequently we can draw power not only from the plants of the field but even from the trees of the forest.

Motor-Trucks Drive Out Horses.

"America, slightly behind European countries in the art of automobile manufacture, was a year or so late in the introduction of the motor-wagon into city freight hauling," writes David Beecroft in Technical World Magazine for July. "But what Columbia lost in time she is now striving to make up in continuous energy; and if American push and brains can win, then the time is not far distant when the streets of our great cities will soon be in the hands of the commercial motor-wagon. "Already the conquest is assured. In the streets of New York, the five-ton electric and gasoline truck transports the tons of coal sold by many of the big dealers; grain merchants use the lordly electric for hauling from the depot to the warehouse; wholesalers have installed both gasoline and electric for conveying goods from the warehouse to the retail headquarters; contractors use them, the Edison company alone requiring 50 in its employ; for breweries they are specially suitable because of the advertising value connected with them; and the myriad other Gotham concerns are getting interested. Coming west, Philadelphia has them by the score; Pittsburgh, with its hills, is rapidly introducing them; Washington has a few and Chicago, with its poorly paved streets, has a score or more of them in operation. In the west Denver and Kansas City are following the example set by the east; Omaha has its first one; Salt Lake City has a couple; Minneapolis has three; and a dozen or more are in use in the various coast cities of California.

Boards of Trade and Municipal Affairs

It is here, as it seems to me, that we touch upon a most important relation between a board of trade and municipal affairs. I can not think of a more useful function which this board could perform than to set out upon a permanent and systematic course of spreading among the people trustworthy information respecting what good city government would do for them, and how it can be obtained. Fortunately, the means for such a campaign of education is at hand.

An Immediate Response.

"My son," said the strict mother, at the end of a moral lecture, according to the Minneapolis Journal, "I want you to be exceedingly careful about your conduct. Never, under any circumstances, do anything which you would be ashamed to have the whole world see you doing."

The small boy turned a handspring with a whoop of delight.

"What in the world is the matter with you? Are you crazy?" demanded the mother.

"No'm," was the answer. "I'm just so glad that you don't 'spec' me to take no baths any more."

Daily Thought.
"The sentiment, desire, or ideal which is not rooted in the heart is but a passing shadow or a picture on the eye. Many such make us light of thought and purposeless in life."

It would be deplorable just at this juncture, if trouble should be precipitated between the general council and the board of public works in regard to the municipal lighting plant, and friction could result only in injury to the public service. The board of public works did not pass the bounds of propriety in asking the city solicitor for his opinion as to the authority of the board in supervising the executive work. But the board should go further with the investigation, and inquire into the facts of Superintendent Keebler's report. It will not do to have trouble and friction even after the machinery is installed. Previous experiences with the municipal lighting admittedly have been financial failures, and since the general council has determined to improve the plant, all hands should be joined to make its operations a success. This only can be done by eliminating all discord, and the best way to do that is, to first ascertain the facts, and then get together.

Wall street got another jolt yesterday that made it sit up and take notice. A poor express clerk caught $5,800,000 worth of Panama canal bonds and he hasn't a cent to put up. He stands to make about $2,000 on his options without the expenditure of more than the price of a postage stamp.

The editor of the Kentucky State Journal is running a serial story in his paper, entitled: "Hays and His Speech." By comparison of the State Journal's opinion of Hays with its opinion of Hayes' speech, it becomes plain that the editor believes Hays wrote the speech.

Why should the country go into spasms because Mrs. Sage spent a life competence in protecting the body of her husband from the ghouls? Uncle Russell Sage always took care of his body while he was alive.

It is evident from recent orders to close all the disorderly houses not situated on Kentucky avenue, that all of them have not been corralled on the lower end of that street.

Joe Cannon enjoyed "shooting the chutes" at Coney Island, but sprang to his feet again like a boy. One can not imagine the genial speaker on the toboggan for fair.

Slamatoff was the name of a Russian police chief killed yesterday. That also was the instruction given the fellow that killed him.

It is a misdemeanor for any photographer to indulge in obvious jokes about Pickeral, whose body was full of fish bones.

WEEDS

TOPIC FOR CONSIDERATION BY BOARD OF HEALTH.

Bradshaw's Creek Is Menace to the Health But Board of Health Must Act.

"Weeds" will be the subject-matter of the meeting tomorrow morning of the board of health. Ways and means to compel property owners to keep the weeds on their vacant property or anywhere they may be, cut and destroyed, will be devised. The mayor has said he does not know of any ordinance at present on the statute books which would apply.

The board of health will be powerless to ameliorate the condition of Bradshaw's creek, into which some residents in that section have built sewers, until the board of public works takes action in the matter. Water in the creek stagnates which with the refuse turned into it, causes an unhealthy odor to rise.

TAKE MILLIONS FROM AMERICA
Records Show That Immigrants Send Earnings to Home Banks.

Washington, July 26.—Millions of dollars in American gold is being hoarded annually in the banks of Italy by temporary Italian residents of the United States. This is the news that has just reached the government, along with a statement from the general commissioner of immigration to the states from Italy in the year 1905-6 approached the 500,000 mark. The idea of most Italian emigrants, says the immigration commissioner, is to accumulate something like a fortune in the states and return with it to Italy. The intimacy of the home connection is shown by the exhibit of the Bank of Naples, which, having advertised that sort of business as its specialty, has more than 183,000 accounts opened by Italian emigrants in the United States and placed to their credit during the fiscal year just closed more than $500,000.

COUNCILMAN IS TOO FLIPPANT
Terre Haute City Fathers Threaten Another Impeachment Trial.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 26.—The city council tonight ordered a committee to investigate charges against Councilman Telge with a view to impeachment, his offense being flippant testimony at the impeachment trial of Mayor Bidaman, who was removed from office several weeks ago for failure to enforce the saloon law. Telge is a saloon-keeper, and when the attorney for the prosecution asked his opinion he replied that it was "to rob people when he got a chance."

Alarming Is Lawlessness.
Warsaw, July 26.—Lawlessness here is assuming alarming proportions. During theft and robberies, with violence and daily occurrences. The police maintain a passive attitude.

The Cure of Headaches.
By Osteopathy.

"What bone would you pull to treat a headache?" asked a layman. Any bone that may be out of its correct position in the neck or back, so as to bring its pressure upon the nerves which express the pain sense—that is, if the headache happens to be due to a bony slip; but of course it may not be at all. That is one frequent cause, but there are many others which are apt to be operative. A muscular contraction in the back, in the neck, or over the head, may likewise cause headache. Indigestion, eye-strain, mental fatigue, a sluggish liver, constipation, kidney disease, and many other things are frequent causes of headache. Hence the cure of headache osteopathically is the cure of its cause or causes. To find the remedy these causes, having as they usually do an anatomical basis, requires special and thorough training, and that is why osteopathy exists as an independent school of medicine. Its practitioners are specialists. They cure headaches, as they do other diseases not by "pulling" a bone, unless a bone needs "pulling," but by finding the cause of each special headache and giving that cause whatever treatment is needed to cure it. So in a dozen different headaches none might be treated alike osteopathically, and yet ten or eleven of the dozen would likely be cured.

Osteopathy is probably doing more for suffering humanity than any recent discovery, and I should like for you to investigate its merits. I should be pleased to see all who may be interested in osteopathy at any time from 9 a. m. to 12 and 2 to 5 p. m.

Osteopathy is the same, rational treatment of illness and disorders. Dr. G. B. Froage, phone 1407, 516 Broadway.

MAKING THE BEST OF IT.

Mr. Nervous: "I love the smell of motor cars!"
Hostess: "Really? What an extraordinary taste! Why do you like it?"
Mr. Nervous: "Because when you smell it you know the danger's past."

IN THE LOBBY

"With the example of every other state before it, the new state of Oklahoma ought to have a model constitution. And the outlook now seems in a good way to realize such success. The people are choosing the framers of the constitution with scrupulous care, men who can observe intelligently the course of events in the past and guide the new state around the pitfalls into which the older states naturally fell in the course of experience."

"Will the Indians be franchised, and if they do, won't they be an undigestible mass upon the body politic?" was asked of Edward Ricardo, of Guthrie.

"The government has foreseen the Indian's lack of circumspection, and has made it so he cannot dispose of his land holdings. If they could, it would not be six months until practically all the Indians land would be in the hands of the white citizens or their more enterprising brothers. Still there are many refreshing exceptions to that statement, there being numerous intelligent and highly civilized Indians, in the territory. For every man, woman and child of the Indians had 320 acres are reserved. One hundred and sixty of that number of acres cannot be transferred away from the owner, either by himself or by process of law."

MEN FIGHT

And Women Fight in Court Room at Union City.

Union City, Tenn. July 26.—In the celebrated Walker-Edwards $50,000 damage case today several of the defendant's principal witnesses were on the stand. This afternoon Col. Edwards took the stand in his own behalf, and was getting into the interesting part of a famous tallyho drive, when the sheriff requested Archie to vacate the seat inside the space reserved for lawyers and others connected with the court.

Archie refused, when the judge was appealed to, and Archie sprang up and struck the sheriff in the face. A fight started, and half a dozen men were necessary to take Archie to jail, where the judge ordered him. The women stenographers flew to places of safety, men got out of the way, and Miss Walker, the plaintiff, fainted, requiring the services of two physicians, and court adjourned till morning.

HONEYMOON ENDED

By Death of Wealthy Ranch Owner and His Bride in a Cloudburst.

Chepenne, Wyo., July 26.—T. A. Renner, a wealthy ranch owner and a banker of Meeteetse, Wyo., and his bride, formerly Miss Catherine Woods of Eddyville, Neb., were drowned a few days ago in a flood caused by a cloudburst in Iron Gulch. They had been spending their honeymoon at one of Renner's ranches and were drowned while attempting to drive through a torrent caused by the cloudburst.

ANGRY COW GOES WOMAN IN THE ARM

Mrs. W. N. Levan is Knocked Down and Seriously Hurt.

Artery Severed and Bone Laid Bare By Horns of Animal—Walked to House.

PRESENCE OF MIND SAVES HER.

Mrs. W. N. Levan, of Bridge street, in Mechanicsburg, was attacked and gored by a cow last evening shortly before dusk and badly injured. Her arm was torn open for a distance of several inches and the bone bare. But for her presence of mind she might have been killed.

Mrs. Levan was milking and the cow began acting queerly. The woman paid no heed to the bovine's antics and continued her employment. Suddenly the cow turned and with an angry toss of its head caught Mrs. Levan in the left arm just above the elbow and forced her down. The flesh was pierced and the bone bare. An artery was severed. Although badly injured the woman was able to arise and run for the house.

Dr. Carl M. Sears was called and dressed the wound, which is a serious one. Mrs. Levan is resting well today.

NEW INDICTMENTS

For President Shea and Others of Teamsters' Union.

Chicago, July 26.—New indictments were returned today by the grand jury against Cornelius P. Shea, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, and forty-two other labor leaders and officials, thirty-one of whom were indicted at the same time as Shea, one year ago. The new indictments supercede the old ones, which were found at the conclusion of the great teamsters' strike last year. Twenty-seven counts were brought out in the indictments, the burden of them being conspiracy to injure the trade of a number of the largest business houses in the city, as well as that of all the express companies.

KNOWS NOTHING OF ICE TRUST
Evidence of Kansas City Witness is Discredited on Cross-Examination.

Kansas City, Mo., July 26.—The defense in the ice hearing today succeeded in discrediting the testimony of Peddler O. B. Shaw, who testified yesterday that he knew that an ice combine existed here and that the alleged ice trust made and controlled the wholesale and retail prices of ice. He was suspected to a severe cross-examination, which developed that he knew nothing whatever upon which to base his declarations.

Other peddlers testified that all the ice companies advanced the price of ice simultaneously here, and all but one said they bought ice from the plants to which they were directed by the manager of the People's Storage and Fuel company.

AID FOR SHANGHAIED SAILORS
Secretary Metcalf Takes Steps to Secure Release From British Ship.

Springfield, Ill., July 26.—United States District Attorney Northcott today received a telegram from Secretary Metcalf, of the department of commerce and labor saying that steps had been taken to secure the release of McLaughlin and O'Donnell two Illinois men said to have been shanghaied abroad the British sailing vessel, Celtic Monarch, bound for Australia. Secretary Metcalf has notified the collector of customs at Honolulu to request the British consul to release the two men when the vessel reaches that city.

FIERCE FIGHTING.

One Hundred Casualties in Battle With Pulajanes.

San Francisco, July 26.—A special cable dispatch to the Examiner from Manila says:

"A detachment of the Twenty-fourth Infantry, colored, and a company of native constabulary were attacked yesterday by hundreds of Pulajanes while on a trail between the towns of Tolosa and Domani, Island of Leyte, and a desperate battle took place, resulting in the route of the fanatics with a loss of fifty killed and more than sixty wounded. The American casualty was one sergeant of the constabulary wounded."

Ranch of 1,280,000 Acres.
Kingsville, Tex., July 26.—Mrs. H. M. King today purchased the Laurelos ranch, embracing 170,000 acres, the consideration being $1,000,000. This purchase makes Mrs. King the owner of 1,280,000 acres of land, situated practically in one body.

The gauge registered a stage of 12.4 this morning, a rise of 0.1 in the last 24 hours. Business was heavy at the wharf last night, from the arrival of the Saltito, the Dick Fowler, and the Dunbar at the same time each with big loads. This morning business was unusually light.

The City of Saltito arrived at 9 o'clock last night from the Tennessee river and left at 11:30 o'clock for St. Louis. There were three score passengers aboard making the round trip from St. Louis.

The Dunbar arrived last night several hours late and left immediately for Nashville. An extra trip above Nashville and an excursion out of Clarksville delayed the boat. If possible the regular trip to Clarksville from here will be made Monday.

The Dick Fowler left this morning for Cairo with a light business. Last night business on the up trip from Cairo was heavy.

The John Hopkins arrived from Evansville today and left immediately on the return trip to that point.

The Kentucky will arrive this evening from the Tennessee river and lie over until Saturday evening before starting on the return trip.

Captain Baker of the Ayer-Lord Tie company, tried to start the towboat Margaret up the Tennessee river after ties this morning, but tie hands could not be secured. This does not argue a scarcity of labor at the wharf for tie hands are counted skilled labor.

Mr. Boyce Berryman, the well known steamboat pilot, has returned from Nashville where he had been on business.

The Savannah left St. Louis yesterday for the round trip to the Tennessee river.

There was something of a rush at the river last night, so much so that the wharf looked drowsy this morning as if it was not used to late hours. The Dick Fowler, the City of Saltito and the Dunbar arrived about the same time and all had big business. The wharfmaster had his hands full, distributing the freight about the wharfboat, but his cup ran over when two score or more of young women passengers on the Saltito undertook to find amusement on that prosaic place.

But again the benevolent attitude of the police department toward unoccupied strangers was manifested. How would you like to have fifty young women swoop down upon you each with a determination to make you her own? Again, how would you like to be Patrolman Cross, with the wharfboat beat?

These young women probably had the idea held by the young women in King Dodo that when a king (or his equal a policeman) is relieved of the insignia of his office his official capacity ceases. At any rate they charged this policeman, took his club, his helmet and even his pistol leaving only the conventional dress worn by a gentleman in the presence of ladies.

Then they carried the captive aboard the good steamer Saltito and made him drink hot coffee and perhaps dainty hands fed him the choicest product of the baker's art. Who now will deny that the most humble situation may produce the greatest event?

But the feminine heart could not for long be harsh. Reluctantly they restored the policeman to his official splendor, and amid the sighing of the escape valve, the laughter and cheers of the young women, and the hurrahs of the wharfboat officers, to say nothing of the hoarse blasts of the whistle, the boat swung out into the river with the prow pointed to Cairo.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat says: "A new speedboat, invented by C. A. Manker, president of the Bank of Pearl M., was launched at Afton yesterday and given a trial with a new forty-horse-power engine. The inventor started to Pearl, about sixty miles up the river. The stern of the boat is sharp like the bow of ordinary boats and the bow is rounded and has an overhang. The bottom is concave, and Manker claims that these changes will have a tendency to make the boat draw less water. The peculiar shape of the new invention brought out many criticisms from boat builders but Manker believes that he has made a discovery that will revolutionize the building of fast boats."

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio at Evansville and Mt. Vernon, will continue rising during the next 36 hours. At Paducah and Cairo will continue rising during the next several days.

The Tennessee at Florence will continue rising during the next 24 hours. At Johnsonville will commence rising Thursday.

The Mississippi from below St. Louis to Cairo, will continue rising during the next 24 hours.

BARRED THE BEDS

And Made His Wife Sleep On a Dry Goods Box.

South Bend, Ind., July 26.—Acting on complaint of neighbors, who allege that an insane couple was living at 11 Pennsylvania avenue, the police today raided the place and placed W. A. Kessler under arrest. The latter's wife was allowed to remain in the house, but is being watched by Humane Officer Moore. Kessler refused to allow the crated household furniture to be unpacked, and night after night he compelled his wife to sleep on a dry goods box containing the family dishes. Not a carpet, bed or chair could be seen.

IN WRONG FLAT.

Mistaken for Burglar Chicago Man Is Shot.

Chicago, July 26.—While making a mistake not uncommon to residents of flat buildings, Joseph Wolfstein was the victim of another mistake last night. He was mistaken for a burglar and shot by E. D. Norton, a member of the board of trade. Mr. Wolfstein was not fatally hurt but the manner of his shooting was curious. Mr. Norton and Mr. Wolfstein have flats in the same building at Fifty-fifth Place and South Park avenue.

BIG RICE STOCK

Including 50,000 Sacks Burned at Beaumont, Texas.

Beaumont, Tex., July 26.—The large two-story brick warehouse of the McFaddin-Weiss-Kyle Rice Milling company, containing 50,000 sacks of rice, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin early today. The rice was valued at $200,000 and the building and contents at about $115,000. The rice mill near by, the largest in this country, was only slightly damaged by water. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

And Killed While at Work in the Harvest Fields Were Farmers.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—During an electrical storm today Robert Raulston was struck by lightning and killed in a harvest field near Austin. Two men were killed by lightning at Sioux Agency near Redwood this evening. The dead are A. M. Wootter, of Morgan, and a man named Johns, of Three Lakes.

Marvin Hart Postpones Trip.

Louisville, Ky., July 26.—Marvin Hart's trip to Australia where he was to fight Bill Squires, has been indefinitely postponed. Fever, contracted on Salt river, where he was working, has affected Hart, and, while his illness is not of a serious nature, it is sufficient to make him put off the date of leaving indefinitely.

STREET CAR AND BUGGY

Collide and Occupants of Vehicle Are Thrown Out.

A north bound street car of the Belt line, in charge of Conductor Morrow, collided with a buggy occupied by Levi Brown, of 1236 Sixth street, and H. A. Handy, of 1238 Seventh street, at Third and Jackson streets, about 1 o'clock this afternoon, smashing the buggy and throwing the occupants out. Levi Brown was badly bruised. Handy escaped injury. The horse was knocked down and bruised. The men said they were turning into Third street from Jackson street when the car struck their vehicle. They claimed they did not hear the going of the street car and did not see it in time to stop. They were taken into Kolb's drug store, where Dr. Frank Boyd attended them.

$500,000,000 Relief Fund Promises to Bring Trouble.

San Francisco, Cal., July 26.—It is every man's opportunity to "rouge" just now, and everybody seems ready to take it. Landlords are still raising rents, unions are still raising wages, merchants are raising prices. The cost of building materials is doubling. Every possible advantage is being taken of the general pressing need. There is growing fear of the pauperization of the army of refugees. The $5,000,000 relief fund is beginning to appear as a handicap rather than a blessing.

FORMER PRISONER THOUGHT GUILTY

Somebody Set Fire to Stable
Used by Jailer.

Discovered in Time and Blaze Extinguished Before Great Damage Was Done.

RESIDENCE FOUND BURNING.

Some former prisoner, harboring malice toward City Jailer Tom Everts, it is believed, set fire to a barn near Ninth and Trimble streets, in which the jailer kept his horses and vehicles. Jailer Everts discovered the fire himself about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and turned in the alarm. The blaze was extinguished with a loss of $250.

The frame structure belonged to Lane and Gallagher, and their loss will be about $150. One set of double and one set of single harness, together with several odd pieces, all valued at about $100, no insurance, were lost by Jailer Everts.

When the case was investigated it was discovered that the fire originated in a closet. The indications were that the building had been set on fire.

Residence Is Damaged.

The residence of Mr. Archie Purdy, 318 South Seventh street, was damaged by fire this morning about 2 o'clock. The cause of the fire is unknown, no one being at home. The structure is one-story frame, owned by Jake Biederman. Mrs. Purdy is visiting in Kuttawa, her home, and Mr. Purdy was away from the house. Dr. J. T. Reddick residing next door, was awakened by the bright light and turned in the alarm. The damage to household effects will amount to about $500 with about $300 damage to the house. Both house and contents are covered by insurance.

Mattress Was On Fire.

The fire department was called to a house on Kentucky avenue this morning at 3 o'clock. A mattress was afire, but the blaze had been extinguished before the firemen arrived.

The West Kentucky Coal Co., and others vs. steamer Woolfolk and eight barges.

Whereas libels were filed in the district court of the United States for the western district of Kentucky, at Paducah, on the 21st and 22nd days of June, 1906, by the West Kentucky Coal company and Mississippi Valley Marine Railway and Dock company against the steamer Woolfolk and 8 barges, her engines, tackle, apparel and owners, alleging in substance that said steamer Woolfolk and barges were indebted to them in the sum aggregating $235.97 for fuel repairs, etc., and that same has never been paid, and prays process against said steamer Woolfolk and barges, and that same may be condemned and sold to pay said claims with costs and expenses.

Now, therefore, in pursuance to the motion under seal of said court, to me directed I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said steamer Woolfolk and barges, or in any way interested therein, that they may be and appear before the district court of the United States, in the city of Paducah, Ky. on or before the 6th day of August, 1906, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day then and there to interpose their claims and to make their allegations in that behalf.

MR. HICKS, OF JACKSON,

Loses His Grip in St. Louis While "Rubbering."

St. Louis, Mo., July 26.—Robert B. Hicks, of Jackson, Tenn., arrived in the city today and in searching for a hotel that would suit him, walked down Washington avenue, carrying a grip which he said contained $100 in cash and jewelry as well as clothing. Hicks was weary with his tramp from Union station, and was overcome by the sight of the skyscrapers which line both sides of the avenue between Broadway and Sixth street. In order to get a better idea of the altitude of the buildings, Mr. Hicks carefully deposited his grip on the sidewalk between his legs and craned his head upward and backward until he could get a clear view of the fourteen-story building. After satisfying himself that the skyscrapers were architecturally perfect, Mr. Hicks bent down to pick up his grip, when, lo, it was gone.

Misconceptions of the Philippines.

A prolific source of misconceptions of the Philippines lies in the earnest sympathy of some who wish the best for the natives. In Mindanao I once met a most devout and interesting young American missionary—a clergyman, at least—who was self-sacrificingly sincere in his efforts to redeem an obscure little coast-cluster of natives. When I sat together through a long, glorious afternoon and far into a magnificent moonlight night, out-looking through coco palms and bananas, over that incomparable inland sea, the climate of Mindanao, by the way, is absolutely superb. We were talking of the natives from his viewpoint—and God forbid that I suggest that what he said was not fresh from the fountain-head of honesty. Misconceptions had hardened his heart against the administration, both on account of its treatment of the natives and for its discrimination against the whites. He was curiously mixed in his antagonisms, from the fact that on one side he had been trying for a friend to locate some American capital advantageously in Mindanao, while on the other hand he was missionarying it. Had he not been so earnest, withal it would have been amusing to set one side of him against the other side and watch the two fight it out. He assured me that he had sent home for publication effective papers portraying the whole business. He cited the wrongs of the people with instances that roused my indignation. Among them I remember; each little farmer owning a carabao, the great blue buffalo which is the one vital necessity to all farming there must pay a tax upon the same; that each poor family owning a miserable dug-out called a banca—without which he could neither go himself nor transport his produce anywhere, as everything is on the coast and all the ways are waterways—must pay a tax therefor; that the wretched creatures, only a step from starvation all the time, hardly making money often enough to know its nature, must pay a poll tax to support their foreign oppressors. I have since read these same statements in inflammatory circulars and pamphlets from America—Willard French in August Lippincott's.

A New American Industry.

The infant industry of raw silk production gives promise of developing into sturdy and vigorous manhood, even though protective duties and the aid of state or national bounties be denied it, writes John L. Cowan in Technical World Magazine for August. The father of the present movement to establish sericulture as a permanent and profitable branch of American industry, is Louis Borris Magid, a German by birth, an Italian by descent and an American by choice and adoption. At Tallulah Falls, Georgia, he owns 3,500 acres of land, on which he has planted more than 200,000 mulberry trees, which are now from three to five years old, and which are designed for the feeding of millions of silk worms. The land will be subdivided into many small farms, and leased or sold to persons willing to engage in silk culture. Mr. Magid has proven that silk can be produced as cheaply in America as in any other country, and that the $100,000,000 or expended annually for foreign silks might just as well be kept at home for the benefit of American farmers, workmen and manufacturers.

LYING IN STREET WOMAN IS FOUND

Had Swallowed Dose of Morphine and Laudanum.

Mrs. Jack Calvin Tells a Physician She Wishes to Die, but He Saves Her.

DISCOVERED NEARLY DEAD.

The still form of a woman was discovered lying on South Third street just above Jackson street by pedestrians yesterday afternoon about dark. The woman was lying near the fence and suspected her to have become over heated, an examination was made when it was discovered she was suffering from laudanum poisoning. She is Mrs. Lucy Calvin, wife of "Happy Jack" Calvin, a showman who performs sleight-of-hand tricks in a small house in "Canaan," in Mechanicsburg. She had taken one ounce of laudanum and ten cents worth of morphine, but was relieved of the drugs before she had gone too far.

When discovered her breathing was heavy and sound, and she could hardly be aroused. She disclosed her identity, a buggy was hastily summoned and the woman carried home.

Dr. Carl M. Sears worked three hours with her before she was out of danger. She informed the physician that she wished to die because of domestic troubles.

Happy Jack's Show Closed.

"Happy" Jack Calvin realizes that troubles never come singly.

Yesterday after Calvin's wife took poison, while he was performing and entertaining a congregation of the residents of "Canaan," Constable A. C. Shelton put in appearance. The constable held a big paper which he read to the showman. With the magic words of the paper the show came to an abrupt end and the one room store building which had been converted into a play house was closed and thrown in darkness.

Jack had secured no county license to engage in the show business, and will have to remain idle until he procures one.

Workmen Who Own Their Jobs.

People who believe in co-operation are greatly interested in the Caledonia Coal Mining company, at Saginaw, Mich., all the stock in which is owned and controlled by the workmen who dig the coal. The mine and its owners are described by Arthur Cook in Technical World Magazine for August. The company has been in existence but a few months, but already it has forced a reduction in the local retail price of coal from $4.50 to $3.50 a ton. Started with a membership of 100 and a total capitalization of $50,000, the demand for coal has been so great as to necessitate the increasing of the membership to 500 and the capital to $250,000. Some time after it was in full operation, a strike of coal miners closed every other mine in the state of Michigan. Only the Caledonia kept on producing to its full capacity and—true to the principles its owners profess—it did not take advantage, by a cent, of the opportunity to raise the cost of coal. As evidence that the experiment is so far greatly successful, Mr. Cook states that recently the Caledonia has leased an additional 500 acres of coal lands, adjoining its present holdings, and is already at work putting down new shafts.

The West Kentucky Coal company and others against steamer Mary M. Michael.

Whereas libels were filed in the district court of the United States, for the western district of Kentucky, at Paducah, on the 21st and 22nd days of June, 1906, by the West Kentucky Coal company, and Mississippi Valley Marine Railway and Dock company against the steamer Mary M. Michael, her engines, tackle, apparel and owners, alleging in substance that said steamer Michael was indebted to them in the sum aggregating $1,609.28 for fuel repairs, etc., and that same has never been paid, and prays process against said steamer Mary M. Michael, and the same may be condemned and sold to pay said claims, with cost and expenses.

Now, therefore, in pursuance to the motion under seal of said court to me directed, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said steamer Mary M. Michael, or in any way interested therein, that they may be and appear before the district court of the United States in the city of Paducah, Ky. on or before the 6th day of August, 1906, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and to make their allegations in that behalf.

Why Pabst Malt Is The Perfect Malt

PABST has proven by scientific experiments and sixty years of practical brewing that eight days are required in making malt to bring about those necessary chemical changes by which the perfect predigested malt is produced. In many breweries the old four-day process is still used and the malt is of forced, unnatural development. It lacks in nutrition and is in all ways inferior, much of the vital nutriment of the grain being lost. Beer brewed from Pabst eight-day malt retains in predigested form all of the nutrimental life-giving elements of the grain.

It is the exclusive Pabst method of brewing with Pabst eight-day malt that makes Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer superior as a nourishing tonic and a delicious beverage.

Doctoring Sick Trees.

Picturesque as well as novel is the method recently adopted of treating troubles of trees by injecting doses of various medicines into them, writes Rene Bache in Technical World Magazine for August. At the present time experiments in this line are being made at the state experiment station in North Dakota, and during the last two or three years similar work has been carried on by investigators in France. It is too early as yet to announce definite results, but the progress of the tests is being watched with interest by scientists all over the world.

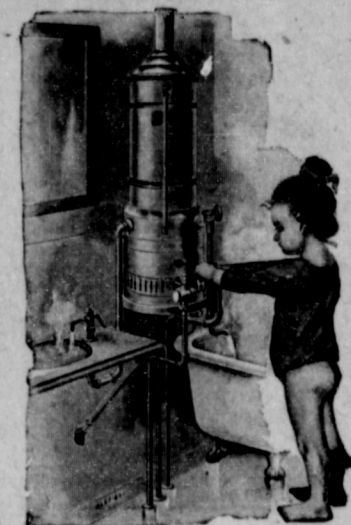

Incidentally it has been ascertained that, by the help of simple expedients a tree may be induced to absorb very large quantities of fluids—the process adopted at the North Dakota station consisting in fastening a large inverted bottle, by a strap or some such means, to the trunk, and connecting the mouth by a rubber tube with a hole bored in the bark two or three feet lower down. The "head" thus given to the water or other liquid in the bottle is sufficient to force it into the living tissues of the tree, causing it to be taken up into the circulatory system and distributed even to the most distant branches.

In the Bishop's Carriage

By MIRIAM NICHOLSON

(Copyright, 1926, by The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

Can you see him, Mag, sitting opposite me there at the pretty little table, off in a private room by ourselves? He looked so big and strong and masterful, with his eyes half closed, watching me, that I hugged myself with delight to think that I—Nancy Olden, had done something for him he couldn't do for himself.

It made me so proud, so tipsily vain, that I leaned forward eagerly talking, I felt that same intoxicating happiness I get on the stage when the audience is all with me, and the two of us—myself and the many-handed, good-natured other fellow over on the other side of the footlights—go carrying off on a jaunt of fun and fancy, like two good playmates.

He was silent a minute when I got through. Then he laid his cigar aside and stretched out his hand to me.

"And the reason, Nance—the reason for it all?"

I looked up at him. I'd never heard him speak like that.

"The reason?" I repeated.

"Yes, the reason." He had caught my hand.

"Why—to down that tiger trust—and beat Tausig."

He laughed.

"And that was all? Nonsense, Nance Olden, there was another reason. There are other tiger trusts. Are you going to set up as a lady-errand and right all syndicate wrongs? No, there was another, a bigger reason, Nance. I'm going to tell it to you—what?"

I pulled my hand from his; but not before that fat waiter who'd come in without our noticing had got something to grin about.

"Beg pardon, sir," he said. "This message must be for you, sir. It's marked immediate, and no one else—"

Overmuller took it and tore it open. He smiled the oddest smile as he read it, and he threw back his head and laughed a full, hearty laugh when he got to the end.

"Read it, Nance," he said, passing it over to me. "They sent it on from the office."

I read it.

"Mr. Fred W. Overmuller, Manager Vaudeville Theater, New York City, N. Y. 'Dear Overmuller: I have just learned from your little protegee, Nance Olden, of a comedy you've written. From what Miss Olden tells me of the plot and situations of 'The Great and the Greatest'—your title's great—I judge the thing to be something altogether out of the common, and my secretary and reader, Mr. Mason, agrees with me that properly interpreted and perhaps touched up here and there, the comedy ought to make a hit."

"Would Miss Olden take the leading role, I wonder?"

"Can't you drop in this evening and talk the matter over? There's an opening for a fellow like you with us that's just developed within the past few days, and it's strictly confidential—I have succeeded in convincing Braun and Lowenthal that their enmity is a foolish personal matter which business men shouldn't let stand in the way of business. After all, just what is there between you and them? A mere trifle, a misunderstanding that half an hour's talk over a bottle of wine with a good cigar would drive away."

"If you're the man I take you for you'll drop in this evening at the Van Twiller and bury the hatchet. They're good fellows, those two, and smart men, even if they are stubborn sin."

"Counting on seeing you tonight, my dear fellow, I am most cordially,"

"I. M. TAUSIG."

I dropped the letter and looked over at Overmuller.

"Miss Olden," he said, severely, coming over to my side of the table, "have you the heart to harm a generous soul like that?"

"He—he's very prompt, isn't he, and most—"

And then we laughed together.

"You notice the letter as marked personal?" Overmuller said. He was still standing beside me.

"No—was it?" I got up, too, and began to pull on my gloves; but my fingers shook so I couldn't do a thing with them.

"Oh, yes, it was. That's why I showed it to you. . . . Nance—Nance, don't you see that there's only one way out of this? There's only one woman in the world that would do this for me, and that I could take it from."

I clasped my hands together. Oh, what could I do, Maggie, with him there, and his arms ready for me!

"I—I should think you'd be afraid," I whispered. I didn't dare look at him.

He caught me to him, then.

"Afraid you wouldn't care for an old fellow like me?" he laughed. "Yes, that's the only fear I had. But I lost it, Nance, Nancy Overmuller, when you flung that paper down before me. That's quite two hours ago—haven't I waited long enough?"

Oh, Mag—Mag, how can I tell him? Do you think he knows that I am going to be good—good! that I can be as good for a good man who loves me, as I was bad for a bad man I loved!

CHAPTER XVII.
HILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—Maggie, dear: I'm writing to you just before dinner, while I wait for Fred. He's down at the box office looking up advance sales. I tell you, Maggie Monahan, we're strictly in it—we Overmullers. That Broadway bit of mine has preceded me here, and we've got the town, I suspect, in advance.

I'm not writing to tell you this, but something more interesting to tell you, my dear old Cruelty chum.

I tell you to pretend to yourself that you see me, Mag, as I came out of the big chestnut street store this afternoon, my arms full of bundles.

Heels of that long coat to my heels, of dark, warm red, silk-lined, with the long, incurving back sweep and high chineline collar, that Fred ordered made for me the very day we were married. I must be wearing that jolly little, red-cloth toque caught up on the side—some of the fur.

Oh, yes, I knew I was more than a year behind the times when I got them; but a successful actress wears what she pleases, and the rest of the world wears what pleases her, too. Besides, fashions don't mean so much to you when your husband tells you how becoming—but this has nothing to do with the bishop.

Yes, the bishop, Mag!

I had just said, "Nance Olden—" To myself I still speak to me as Nancy Olden; it's good for me, Mag; keeps me humble and forever grateful that I'm so happy. "Nance, you'll never be able to carry all these things and lift your buful train, too. And there's never a hansom round when it's snowing and—"

And then I caught sight of the carriage. Yes, Maggie, the same fat, low, comfortable, elegant, sober carriage, wide and well-kept, with rubber-tired wheels. And the two heavy horses, fat and elegant and sober, too, and wide and well-kept. I know whose it was the minute my eyes lighted on it, and I couldn't—I just couldn't resist it.

The man on the box—still wide and well-kept—was wide-awake this time. I nodded to him as I slipped in and closed the door after me.

"I'll wait for the bishop," I said, with a red-coated assurance that left him no alternative but to accept the situation respectfully.

"Oh, dear, dear! It was soft and warm inside as it had been that long, long-ago day. The seat was wide and roomy. The cushions had been done over—I resented that—but though a different material, they were a still darker plum. And instead of 'Quo Vadis,' the bishop had been reading 'Resurrection.'"

I took it up and glanced over it as I sat there; but, you know, Mag, the heavy-weight plays never appealed to me. I don't go in for the tragic—perhaps I saw too much of the real thing when I was little.

At any rate, it seemed dull to me, and I put it aside and sat there absent-mindedly dreaming of a little girl-child that I knew once when—when the handle of the door turned and the bishop got in, and we were off.

Oh, the little bishop—the contrast between him and the fat, pompous rig caught me! He seemed littler and leaner than ever, his little white beard scantier, his soft eye kinder, and his soft heart—

"God bless my soul!" he exclaimed, jumped almost out of his neat little boots, while he looked sharply over his spectacles.

What did he see? Just a red-coated ghost dreaming in the corner of his carriage. It made him doubt his eyes—his sanity. I don't know what he'd have done if that warm red ghost hadn't got tired of dreaming, and laughed, outright.

"Daddy," I murmured, sleepily. Oh, that little ramrod of a bishop! The blood rushed up under his clear, thin, baby-like skin and he sat up straight and solemn and awful—awful as such a tiny bishop could be.

"I fear, miss, you have made a mistake," he said, primly.

I looked at him steadily.

"You know I haven't," I said, gently. That took some of the starch out of him, but he eyed me suspiciously.

"Why don't you ask me where I got the coat, Bishop Van Wagenen?" I said, leaning over to him.

He started. I suppose he'd just that moment remembered my leaving it behind that day at Mrs. Ramsay's.

"Lord bless me!" he cried, anxiously. "You haven't your haven't again—"

"No, I haven't." Ah, Maggie, dear, it was worth a lot to me to be able to say that "no" to him. "It was given to me. Guess who gave it to me?"

He shook his head.

"My husband!"

Maggie Monahan, he didn't even blink. Perhaps in the bishop's set husbands are not uncommon, or very likely they don't know what a husband like Fred Overmuller means.

"I congratulate you, my child, or—did it—were you—"

"Why, I'd never seen Fred Overmuller differ, bishop?" I pleaded. "Don't I look like an imposing married woman now? Don't I seem a bit—oh, just a bit nicer?"

His eyes twinkled as he bent to look more closely at me.

"You look—you look, my little girl, exactly like the pretty, big-eyed, wheedling-voiced child I wished to have for my own daughter."

I caught his hand in both of mine.

"Now, that's like my own, own bishop!" I cried.

Mag—Mag, he was blushing like a boy, a prim, rather scared little school-boy that somehow, yet—oh, I knew he must feel kindly to me! I felt so fond of him.

"You see, Bishop Van Wagenen," I began softly. "I never had a father and—"

"Bless me! But you told me that day you had mistaken me for—"

The baby! I had forgotten what that old Edward told me—that this trusting soul actually still believed all I'd told him. What was I to do? I tell you, Mag, it's no light thing to get accustomed to telling the truth. You never know where it'll lead you. Here was I—just a clever little lie or two and the dear old bishop would be happy and contented again. But no; that fatal habit that I've acquired of telling the truth to Fred and you mastered me—and I fell.

"You know, bishop," I said, shutting my eyes and speaking fast to get it over—as I imagine you must, Mag, when you confess to Father Phelan—that was all a little farce-comedy—the whole business—all of it—every last word of it!"

"A comedy?"

I opened my eyes to laugh at him; he was so bewildered.

"I mean a—a fib; in fact, many of them. I—I was just—it was long ago and I had to make you believe—"

His soft old eyes looked at me unbelieving. "You don't mean to say you deliberately lied?"

Now, that was what I did mean—

just what I did mean—but not in that tone of voice.

But what could I do? I just looked at him and nodded.

Oh, Maggie, I felt so little and so nasty! I haven't felt like that since I left the Cruelty. "And I'm not nasty, Maggie, and I'm—Fred Overmuller's wife, and—"

And that put a backbone in me again. Fred Overmuller's wife just won't let anybody think worse of her than she can help—from sheer love and pride in that big, clever husband of hers.

"Now, look here, Bishop Van Wagenen," I broke out. "If I were the abandoned little wretch your eyes accuse me of being I wouldn't be in your carriage confessing to you this blessed minute when it'd be so much easier not to. Surely—surely, in your experience you must have met girls that go wrong—and then go right for ever and ever, amen. And I'm very right now. But—but it has been hard for me at times. And at those times—ah, you must know how sincerely I mean it—at those times I used to try to recall the sound of your voice, when you said you'd like to take me home with you and keep me. If I had been your daughter you'd have had a heart full of loving care for me. And yet, if I had been, and had known that benevolent fatherhood, I should need it less—so much less than I did the day I begged a prayer from you. . . . But—it's all right now. You don't know—do you?—I'm Nance Olden."

That made him sit up and stare. I tell you. Even the bishop had heard of Nance Olden. But suddenly, unaccountably, there came a queer, sad look over his face, and his eyes wouldn't meet mine.

I looked at him, puzzled.

"Tell me what it is," I said.

"You evidently forget that you have already told me you are the wife of Mr.—Mr. Over—"

"Overmuller. Oh, that's all right," I laughed aloud. I was so relieved. "Of course I am, and he's my manager, and my playwright, and my secretary, and—my dear, dear boy. There! I wasn't laughing at the end of it. I

BURGLAR PROOF SAGE'S COFFIN

Mahogany, Steel and Electric Wire Protect His Body.

Widow Spends $23,000 in Perfecting Device to Defeat Efforts of Ghouls.

CASKET WEIGHS THREE TONS.

New York, July 26.—Encased in a hermetically sealed copper envelope, placed within a solid mahogany coffin, the body of Russell Sage was placed in a chilled steel case four inches thick, riveted with steel bolts, locked with a lock, which can only be opened from the inside and lowered into a grave carpeted and lined with evergreens.

The steel case weighs three tons. It was shipped to Oakland cemetery, Troy. Immediately after the steel box and the contents were lowered into the grave, electrical connections were made, and wires were strung so that an immediate alarm will be given if any attempt is made to tamper with the remains.

The coffin alone, of solid mahogany, with its copper inside, envelope, trimmings and mahogany handles, cost approximately $1,000. The steel case and its patent unpickable lock cost $22,000. It is called the burglar-proof coffin, and it is asserted that even without the added precaution of electrical protection or guards it would be impossible for the most expert grave robber to get at the body.

Mrs. Sage, it is said, has had a dread of a violation of the sepulchre ever since the stealing of the body of A. T. Stewart.

Fortune Goes to Wife.

New York, July 26.—The World will say: "Every dollar of Russell Sage's great fortune is left to Mrs. Sage by a will made in 1901, except an insignificant bequest to Mrs. Fannie Chapin, of Onondia, N. Y., an only sister who died two years ago."

The will undoubtedly will be contested by Troy relatives of Mrs. Sage who will charge that the 1901 will was made after a mental breakdown on the part of Sage. Sage's fortune, which is popularly thought to be $100,000,000, amounts to only about $60,000,000.

A Cheerful Parson.

The visitor in the south was offering his sympathies to the old colored parson.

"It's a shame, unde," said the visitor, "that the congregation should drop buttons in the plate when you were collecting your salary."

"Dat doan' mattah, sah," replied the old man with a luminous smile. "Ah kin use dem on dat old path ob trousers de Kurnel gib me."

"Well, they dropped nails in the plate also."

"Jus what Ah need, sah. Yo' see Ah'm guine to build a coonhouse en Ah'll need de nails to drive in de shingles."

"But the lead nickles. What are you going to do with them; throw them away?"

"No, sah; Ah'm guine to make shingles foh mah fishing lines. Glory hallelujah!"—Chicago News.

BEEFSTEAK

SOMETHING NEW TO BOYS FRESH FROM NEW YORK.

George McGowan and Richard Rover Are Viewing Southland From Car Doors.

George McGowan and Richard Rover, two boys fresh from the Bowery in New York City, are in Paducah and were treated to their first beef steak by an interested city official whose fancy turned towards the boys when they applied at the police station for a bed for the night.

The boys came south to see the country and what part of it they have seen they like. At Louisville the boys did not stop but came on through. The train they rode was "easy" they allege, and they had no trouble with the conductor. They are dirty and dressed in odds and ends, but do not seem to care how matters go with them. They lunch by the "hand out" method and the McGowan boy really did not know what a beef steak was.

They say they will "blow" south from here.

IN HEAVY FOG

Steamer Strikes Breakwater and Sinks at Cleveland.

Cleveland, July 26.—The steamer Elphicke crashed into the breakwater last night, broke in two and sank. Seventeen persons were aboard, including two women, were saved by life savers. The boat is a total wreck. Heavy fog caused the accident.

Dance Postponed.

ANOTHER STORY

WILL BE ADDED TO BUILDING AT 116 NORTH FOURTH.

Rhodes-Burford Company Will Have One of the Largest Stores in City.

T. J. Atkins and Frank Parhan, owners of the building at 112 and 116 North Fourth street, occupied by Rhodes-Burford company, have had plans drawn for the immediate construction of another story to the building, the work to start at once and be completed within sixty days.

This will give the Rhodes-Burford company, the occupants, one of the largest retail stores in the city. The building is now three stories high, 57 feet 9 inches in width by 125 feet deep.

The rapid growth in the business of the Rhodes-Burford company is the occasion of the addition. When it moved into the building, three years ago, it was thought it would suffice for years, but it was only a few months after that additional space was required for warehouse purposes, and part of the Noble building at Fourth and Jefferson streets was secured. Now the continued growth calls for more rooms for the display of the stock and the fourth story to their building demanded.

New Road Across Continent.

The greatest railroad project of the century—the building of a line 3,600 miles long from Nova Scotia to the Pacific, running through the heart of the great fertile belt of Canada—is graphically described by Richard A. Haste in Technical World Magazine for July.

Although less than two years have passed since this enterprise was launched, already the surveys have been largely completed, and more than a thousand miles placed under contract for construction. The line from Winnipeg to Port Arthur, consisting of a small portion of the main line to be built by the government, and the Lake Superior branch, to gether with the main line from Winnipeg, to Edmonton, will be completed before September, 1907.

It is estimated that it will take seven years from 1904 to complete the line from Moncton to Port Simpson and until that time the traffic of the northwest will go by way of Port Arthur, by boat to some Great Lake terminus of the Grand Trunk railway, where it will be received by that road for eastern points.

Italian Emigration.

Who'sale emigration again is reducing the pressure of population; every year half a million of Italy's children leave her shores. In some sections, it is true, the drain has been so enormous as to be a danger rather than a relief. When Signor Zarnadelli, the late premier, was making an official tour through the Basilicate, he was surprised on entering a certain village to find no traces of welcome, no effusive deputations, only the may-or with his pessimistic greetings.

"I welcome you in the name of our 8,000 inhabitants, of whom 3,000 have just left for America, and the other five are preparing to follow."

HOUSE CLOSED

CHIEF OF POLICE COLLINS TAKES ACTION.

Determined to Make Proprietors of Disorderly Houses Conduct Them Properly.

Chief of Police James Collins has closed the house of Sue Eggleston, on Kentucky avenue, where the fight resulting in the death of John Mix started. He took this action following up an established rule. Chief Collins is determined that such houses must operate in an orderly manner. He recently closed the resort of Fannie Wilson and the woman was finally driven from the city.

STEAM HEATING SYSTEM.

Will Be Installed in Illinois Central Shops.

A new, complete and thoroughly up-to-date steam heating system is to be installed in the Illinois Central railroad shops, and that remains to be done before the work is actually started is the ratification of the recommendation of the officials at Chicago. It is expected that this will be done within the next few days.

This is a result of a meeting of superintendents, roadmasters and master mechanics of the system at Chicago last week. Affairs of the road, by division and in general, were discussed. Each division prepared its schedule of needs which will be used in making out the appropriation for the fiscal year beginning with this month.

The officials from the Louisville division recommended this improvement, which will cost from $5,000 to $7,000, and it is practically settled that it will be made. "The shops here are not heated well. In the round house only half the building is heated by steam. In the freight car repairing department stoves altogether are used, and there are other departments that are heated partly by stoves. The stove system is dangerous and not so satisfactory as steam. The improvement will necessitate a few new appliances in the engine room, and we expect to have the ratification of the recommendation right away, and see the system in service this winter."

LEEDS IS GUTTED.

Fire Damages City to Extent of Million Dollars.

BUSINESS COLLEGE

PROP. STRONG DISPOSES OF INTERESTS IN INSTITUTION.

After Resting Up He Will Engage in Pharmaceutical Manufacturing.

Prof. William C. Strong, Ph. G., founder of Paducah Central, the business college situated at 306 Broadway, has turned over the management of that institution to Prof. T. C. Mitchell, Bachelor of Accounting, who, in connection with Mr. Chas. M. Thomas, its secretary and treasurer, and Miss Mary E. Wo-brey, the efficient teacher of shorthand and bookkeeping, who so ably assisted Prof. Strong in the up-building of the institution are now to conduct it. Prof. Strong has ably selected the college personnel, Mr. Thomas being one of his early pupils who went into the business world and put into actual practice his knowledge of shorthand, typewriting and bookkeeping for a long time, and who had previously been a school teacher, is well qualified to teach in any branch of the institution, as is also Miss Mary E. Wo-brey, who after graduation in bookkeeping and stenography at another prominent institution, had also practiced her profession in the business world before assuming her position at Paducah-Central. Prof. T. C. Mitchell, who holds the degree of Bachelor of Accounts, was formerly for more than a year an accountant in the "Head" office of the I. C. Ry., at Chicago and afterward for two years book-keeper for a three million dollar corporation in Chicago, has for three years been principal of the West Tennessee College School of Business, is also a stenographer of ability.

Prof. Strong assures the public that the institution he has established and cherished still remains an object of his affection and that while he will take no further active part at the college he will nevertheless remain its advisor and co-operator.

Indiana's Big Steer.

Jumbo, owned by Andrew G. Wessel of Brookville, which is said to be the largest steer in the world, weighs 3,500 pounds, stands 18½ hands high measures 11 feet around the girth and 17 feet 2 inches from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail. He is a full-blooded Shorthorn, is just past the 4-year-old mark, and is still growing taller and gaining in weight. The steer is so gentle that it is often ridden by Mr. Wessel's little son.

During the last two years Jumbo has been taken to a few fairs in Ohio and Indiana, and has attracted the attention of many people. He was raised by P. Ewell, of Springfield Township, Franklin county.—Indianapolis News.

GRAND TEMPLE

AND TABERNACLE OF KENTUCKY IN SESSION.

Order for Improvement of Colored Race Morally, Financially and Intellectually.

The nineteenth session of the Grand Temple and Tabernacle of Kentucky convened Tuesday at Odd Fellows Hall on South Seventh street. The chief Grand Mentor, Sir A. Q. Green and Mrs. Pauline Grubbs, grand high priestess, opened the session in the Saba Merce degree.

After the appointing of the different committees the regular routine of business was dispatched. The hall where the meetings are held is decorated with bunting and flowers.

The order is known as Knights and Daughters of Tabor, and was founded by the Rev. Moses Dickson, of Missouri, in 1848. It has grown immensely, being represented now in 24 states.

The object of the order is to further the cause of the colored race morally, educationally and financially. In the chief grand mentor's report the state represents 70 tabernacles, 10 temples, 6 palatiums and 19 tents, representing an aggregate membership of 3,000.

In spite of the innumerable methods which have been suggested in the course of the last few decades of avoiding seasickness, this is still the most serious inconvenience of a sea journey," writes Dr. Alfred Gradenwitz in Technical World Magazine for July.

A novel device, intended to prevent the distress, has, however, been tested recently, with most excellent results, on the steamship Patricia, of the Hamburg-American line and on the channel steamer Peregrine. This outfit is of great simplicity and merely comprises a comfortable chair, the seat of which is set rapidly vibrating up and down by the force of an electric motor connected to the electric lighting mains of the steamer. Those wishing to protect themselves against the dreaded sickness should sit down on the vibrating chair, when they will feel about the same sensation as in riding in an automobile. The vibratory motion makes the rocking and pitching of the ship less felt, the slow downward motion of the vessel being counteracted by the numerous short vibratory shocks occurring in an upward direction. "The apparatus is the invention of Messrs. R. & W. Otto, of Berlin, Germany."

A Rapid Harvest.
